Further information

London Fire Brigade (LFB) is seeking highly motivated, talented and adaptable applicants who have the vision, leadership skill and potential to become an integral part of the Brigade's top management team. Do you have what we are looking for?

It is an exciting and challenging time to join us. We continue to focus our efforts on prevention and protection, as well as providing a first class operational response to a wide range of emergencies. We have made big changes in recent years, taking bold decisions to set the Brigade in the strongest possible position at a time of public sector savings. But further challenges lie ahead.

We are proud of our achievements to date in terms of the diversity profile of our staff, but there is more to do. London is a wonderfully diverse city and we consider equality in all our work. We're committed to promoting fairness and tackling discrimination. We're also working to remove the barriers that stop people reaching their full potential. With this in mind, we would welcome applications from under-represented groups .

In line with the Basic Personnel Security Standard (BPSS) employment checks will be completed for the successful person, which will include a basic criminal records check. The successful person will be required to declare any convictions for offences which are not spent under the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974 and a Disclosure Scotland Basic Disclosure will be undertaken before an appointment is confirmed.

For instructions on how to apply, please download the How to apply and the assessment process document.

We want our workforce to be as diverse as the communities we serve so are keen to hear from anyone with the ability to do this job.
